MERRY CHRISTMAS & HAPPY NEW YEAR

A last minute one page yuletide greeting and New Year best wish to all our members and readers from your editor and Treasurer and all them close to the heart of BTC.

Another successful year has flown by with Nunsense; despite it's lower profile than other musicals – being a fantastic show that was as usual thoroughly enjoyed by all – especially the cast Well done again to all.

The end of year concerts went very well also – though chorus numbers were slightly down – with our umpteenth Legacy Widows concert; 21st concert for Marangan Lodge and yet another great Raffetys gig. Thanks to all who found the time and energy to be part of those – plus of course Carols by Town Hall light.

Which of course brings us to next year – and the 'brave new world' of BPACC under new management plus a show (Guys and Dolls) that will require a minimum of a dozen men (preferably more?) and our usual beautiful gals but that if we can get off the ground will be one for the history books.

As the old typing drill line went – 'Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party' or in this case BTC. As well as our hard core of regulars we'll need a wider soft core of newcomers to help belt out those big numbers like 'Fugue for Tinhorns' and 'Luck Be a Lady Tonight'.

So make 2013 'lucky for some' and be part of a great show – AND bring along a friend.

HUMOUR

A poor elderly couple goes to McDonalds, where they carefully split a cheese burger and fries.

A truck driver nearby munching on a huge meal takes pity on them and offers to buy the wife her own meal. "It's all right," says the husband. "We share everything." A few minutes later, the truck driver notices that the wife hasn't taken a bite. "I really wouldn't mind buying your wife her own meal," he insists. "She'll eat," the husband gently assures him. "We share everything." Unconvinced, the truck driver implores the wife, "Why aren't you eating?" The wife snaps, "Because I'm waiting for the flaming teeth!"
